An outperformer

Shares of Titan Company, India's largest listed lifestyle player, which has established leadership positions in watches, jewellery, and eyewear, slipped 3.5 per cent to ₹4,380 apiece on Wednesday and the firm was the top loser on the Sensex. The stock reaction came after lower-than-expected sales growth in the second quarter (July-September/Q2) of 2026-27 (FY27). In a pre-quarter update on Tuesday evening, Titan reported domestic jewellery sales growth of 21 per cent year-on-year (Y-o-Y).

Its smaller peer, retail jewellery chain Kalyan Jewellers, posted 27 per cent growth during the same period, and investors reacted positively, sending the stock up 3.8 per cent to ₹568. Although the two stocks saw contrasting reactions, brokerages are positive on both companies, citing healthy consumer demand and expectations of festival-led growth acceleration in the third quarter (October-December/Q3). Over the past year, Titan has outperformed on the returns front, gaining 28 per cent, while Kalyan has delivered a return of 17 per cent.

Consolidated sales growth across segments and geographies for Titan came in at 25 per cent Y-o-Y. Growth was led by CaratLane, which grew 32 per cent, and Eye+, which grew 28 per cent. The international business grew 97 per cent Y-o-Y, but this also included sales from Damas Jewellery, in which Titan has a 67 per cent stake and which was consolidated into Titan effective January this year.

In the jewellery business, the company said demand remained healthy, though there was some softness towards the end of the quarter, given the shift in the festival calendar to Q3FY27. The 21 per cent growth in jewellery was aided by the Tanishq Festival of Diamonds promotion and other brand-level promotions, which lifted studded jewellery sales, with growth in the early 30s, while plain gold jewellery grew 20 per cent.

Kalyan's 27 per cent growth was led by robust operating momentum on the ground, with healthy same-store sales growth (SSSG) across all key markets in the country despite a high base due to strong Navratri sales (all nine days of Navratri fell in Q2 in 2025-26). The recently concluded quarter recorded SSSG of about 20 per cent, it added.

On Titan's performance, Citi Research highlighted that domestic jewellery growth, excluding bullion, at 20 per cent was below its 27 per cent estimate, even as gold prices saw an appreciable Y-o-Y jump. However, the brokerage pointed out that the miss primarily reflected the shift in the festival calendar to Q3FY27 and weaker investment-led coin demand, rather than an underlying slowdown in demand. It has a "buy" rating on the stock with a target price of ₹5,700.

Demand for coins, however, tapered from a high base, resulting in a high single-digit decline.

Antique Stock Broking has trimmed its revenue estimates by 4 per cent, factoring in lower-than-expected bullion sales. Gross margin, however, is likely to expand as the product mix improves, driven by a higher mix of studded jewellery and lower salience of gold coins.

Incremental improvement in the profitability of watches could further support overall profitability. Analysts led by Abhijeet Kundu of the brokerage estimate a margin expansion of 122 basis points for domestic jewellery over the next three years, reaching 10.5 per cent by 2028-29, driven by an improving product mix and operational efficiencies. The brokerage has a "buy" rating with a target price of ₹5,678.

Repo hike: What should borrowers & investors do?

SANJAY KUMAR SINGH & KARTHIK JEROME

The Reserve Bank of India's (RBI's) Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) raised the repo rate by 25 basis points from 5.25 per cent to 5.5 per cent on October 7, 2026, and shifted its stance from neutral to calibrated tightening.

"We expect the repo rate to reach 6.25 per cent by early 2027," says Dhawal Dalal, president and chief investment officer (CIO), fixed income, Edelweiss Mutual Fund.

Fixed deposits
Public and private sector banks currently offer 5-7.65 per cent for one- to 10-year tenure. Small finance banks offer 5.75-8.25 per cent.

After the rate hike, fixed deposit (FD) rates could rise, but not uniformly by 25 basis points. "Deposit pricing will depend on individual banks' funding requirements and competition," says Adhil Shetty, chief executive officer (CEO), BankBazaar. Compare rates across banks at the time of investment or renewal.

Home loans
Lenders are likely to pass on the hike quickly to floating-rate home loans linked to the repo rate. "For new borrowers, the rate impact will be immediate. For existing borrowers, the impact will depend on their loan's reset cycle," says Santosh Agarwal, CEO, Paisabazaar. Loan terms determine whether the equated monthly instalment (EMI), tenure or both increase.

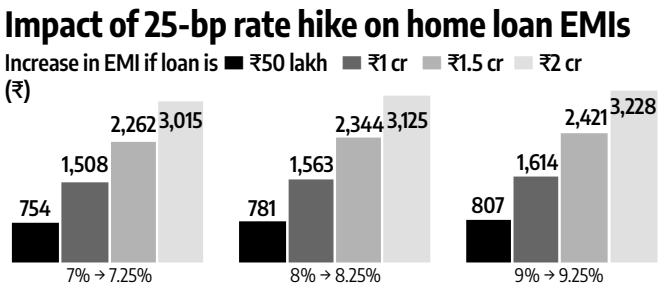

"Existing borrowers who have surplus cash should make partial loan prepayments to offset the impact of rising EMIs and reduce the overall interest burden," says Abhishek Kumar, Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi)-registered investment adviser and founder, SahajMoney.com.

Deepesh Raghaw, Sebi-registered investment adviser, suggests that borrowers under unfavourable marginal cost of funds-based lending rate (MCLR) or base rate regimes, or those whose finances have improved, should consider refinancing.

Banks assess the fixed obligation to income ratio (FOIR). "With rates going up, the amount of loan a new borrower is eligible for will be affected," says Raghaw.

Financially ready buyers need not defer purchases solely because of the hike. "Long-term commitments like home loans usually span several cycles of rising and falling interest rates. Rather than attempting to borrow at the right time in the interest-rate cycle, focus on long-term repayment capacity while keeping enough headroom for future adjustments in EMIs," says Agarwal. Compare offers for your income and credit profile.

Impact of 25-bp rate hike on home loan EMIs

Car and personal loans
Floating-rate loans linked to external benchmarks become costlier for new borrowers, and at the scheduled reset date for existing borrowers.

New borrowers should assess whether higher EMIs are affordable if rates rise further. "Those who have savings should consider making a higher down payment to minimise their total interest cost," says Kumar.

Existing borrowers should check whether they are on a fixed or floating rate and consider part-prepayment.

Debt mutual funds
Rate hikes have a greater negative impact on funds with significantly higher duration. These funds have already priced in the anticipated rate hike. "They might see some impact in the near term," says Devang Shah, head of fixed income, Axis Mutual Fund.

The yield curve tends to flatten during a rate-hike cycle. "During an interest-rate hike cycle, the larger part of the allocation should be in funds with lower duration," says Shah.

Investors comfortable with volatility and duration risk may make small tactical allocations to gilt and duration funds. "A broader move towards longer-duration funds would be appropriate after a couple of hikes have occurred and there is greater consensus that the hike cycle will not be steep," says Shah.

"If yield to maturity has risen, investors may consider target maturity funds, provided their horizon matches the maturity of the fund," says Raghaw.

ATM fee to app: What you should know about bank savings accounts

A savings account should not be seen as merely a parking lot for your income. The goal is to ensure that your bank works for you, providing liquidity and convenience without charging you for the privilege of holding your own money. Here are key facts you should know about a savings account:

Not all savings accounts offer the same features, and the best one depends entirely on how much money you plan to keep there. Focus on number of automated teller machines (ATMs) and a reliable app. A high interest rate is fine, but if the app is frequently down during unified payments interface (UPI) payments, the cost is your time and convenience.

Hidden fees like non-maintenance charges — which kick in even if you are slightly below the required balance — and strict ATM limits can quickly erode your account. Many banks charge ₹25 plus goods and services tax (GST) if your ATM transaction fails due to insufficient funds. Always check the balance on your app before using an ATM. Maintaining two separate accounts helps compartmentalise mandatory bills from discretionary spending while offering a backup during server outages.
